DAILY DEMOCRAT-FORUM
AND. MARYVILLE TRIBUNE

VOLUME 16 | EIGHT PAGES | MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, WEDNESDAY, MAR. 3, 1926 | EIGHT PAGES | NO. 234

LIMIT IS PUT UPON PARKING

CITY'S STREETS NOT A GARAGE, COUNCIL RULES.

CAN STAY 24 HOURS

After That, City Officers May Seize Vehicles and Charge For Storage, Perhaps Sell Them.

Maryville streets no longer can be used in lieu of the garage, it has been decreed by the City Council.

An ordinance passed last night bans parking of any vehicle upon any street or alley for more than twenty-four hours, provides that motor cars or other vehicles left on the streets in violation of the ordinance may be seized by the city, impose charges and penalties, and authorize, under certain conditions the sale of the offending vehicles.

The council also passed the ordinance providing for curbing and grading at the intersection of Fourth and Dunn streets. The ordinance for a sidewalk on the west side of Hester street, between Edwards and Cooper, ordered drawn at the Monday night meeting of the council, also was presented last night and will lie on the table for seven days.

Visitors Often Excluded.

The ordinance directed at leaving of cars on the street becomes effective in ten days. According to Mayor W. O. Garrett and City Marshal B. F. Dougan, the practice has become so common of late that out-of-town visitors have difficulty in finding places to park their cars while transacting their business and it has been almost impossible for the city street force to clean the streets.

"We need every available place for the farmers who come to Maryville to trade and who need places to park their cars. Often they have to go two or three blocks away because 'dead' cars have been left upon the streets for days at a time. Business men ought to be sufficiently interested to provide room."

Some owners of cars, seeking a sale or trade are said to have made a practice of using the street as a display room, the mayor said.

The ordinance also will apply to cars habitually left upon residence streets. Two accidents recently are said to have been caused by such cars.

Street Cleaning A Problem.

The street cleaning problem has claimed much attention from the council at recent meetings. It has been necessary for the city workmen to move many cars in order to clean gutters. The council has been considering the forming of a night force and the prohibiting of all parking upon business streets between the hours of midnight and 7 a. m. The city heads, however, hesitate to call upon the street force to work night, and higher wages would be necessary.

The ordinance passed last night provides that "it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to park, store or permit to be or remain standing at any place on any of the public streets, avenues, alleys or other highways of the city, for a period exceeding twenty-four hours at any one time, any motor or other vehicle, or to so store such vehicle on any public street, avenue, alley or other highway and remove the same within said time and again replace it . . . . for the purpose of so storing the same and not to park the same temporarily for business uses."

The ordinance further provides that it shall be the duty of the marshal or of any police officer to take charge of any motor or other vehicle violating the above provision. He is to remove the offending vehicle from the street and store it in some place provided by the city, keeping it there until the owner or person demanding the vehicle shall have paid to the city $1 as charges for removing and an additional $1 for each day the vehicle remains in the custody of the city.

A Fine Of $5 to $100.

"Any person who shall take, or attempt to take, possession of any vehicle that shall have been removed from any street," the ordinance provides, "without first having paid the penalty . . . . shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $100 for each offense."

Should the $1 penalty and other storage charges be not paid within thirty days after the city takes possession of any vehicle, the city is authorized to sell at public auction on five days notice, either posted in three public places or published for two insertions in any daily newspaper in the city. The proceeds of such sale are to be used first in the penalty, storage charges and the expenses of the sale, after which the balance of the proceeds are to be paid to the owner of the vehicle.

The ordinance creates a lien upon all vehicles taken in charge for all penalties, storage charges, costs and other obligations arising from violation of its provisions.

JAIL BREAKING PLOT CHARGED

WALKER DREDGE ACCUSED OF FURNISHING SAWS.

FUCHS BACK TO JAIL

Clyde Youth, On Parole, Is Charged As "Go Between" In Confession Of Paul Jones.

Walker Dredge, living twelve miles northwest of Maryville, was arrested this morning by Sheriff Lowell B. Campbell on a charge of furnishing prisoners at the county jail with instruments of escape. At the same time the parole of Merle Fuchs, whose home is near Clyde, was revoked, on the charge that he has been the "go-between."

These charges were made as the result of a confession made by Paul Johnson, who was taken from the Nodaway County jail to the Holt County jail on Saturday, Feb. 20. Sheriff Lowell Campbell, after releasing Johnson from jail on that day to the sheriff of Holt County, heard that Johnson had been given hack saws the day before in the county jail here. He notified the sheriff of Holt County to search Johnson thoroughly and three saws were found upon him. Johnson then confessed that these saws had been purchased by Dredge and were given to Johnson by Fuchs, who was then a trusty in the jail. Fifty cents had been given to Dredge to make the purchase and as the saws only cost 30 cents, Dredge kept the 20 cents.

No Chance To Use Them.

Johnson had no chance to use the saws here, as he did not get them until late in the afternoon and he was taken away early the following morning. Johnson was serving a sentence here of six months in jail and a fine of $500 for possession of liquor. He had practically served out his jail sentence here when he was released to the Holt County authorities on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses and with breaking jail at Oregon two or three times. If convicted of these charges, Johnson would receive a penitentiary sentence.

Roscoe Blazier, who was serving a jail sentence here of one year, for driving a motor car while intoxicated, was taken to the Holt County jail along with Johnson. Blazier had spent practically six months of his sentence here and Holt County authorities wanted him on a charge of burglary and larceny, a penitentiary offense.

Fuchs was paroled in circuit court on Feb. 20. At the October term of circuit court he had been given a jail sentence of one year for driving a car while intoxicated. Since his parole has been revoked he now will have to serve out his sentence.

Dredge was in jail several months ago on a bogus check charge. It was thought that he became acquainted with Johnson and also with Blazier at that time.

James McGinness, who underwent an operation at St. Francis Hospital about three weeks ago, is improving. Mr. McGinness lives near Bedison.

Ultimatum On State License Is Repeated; March 8 Is Deadline

The time limit for buying state license plates for automobiles and trucks will expire at midnight on Sunday, March 7, George Pat Wright, prosecuting attorney, stated today. This warning was issued about ten days ago but it was thought necessary to repeat it.

Some adjoining counties have set their deadlines as March 1, and Mr. Wright points out, they have no local distributing points as Nodaway County has.

Arrests here for failure to obtain license plates will start on Monday, March 8, Mr. Wright concluded.

Meantime, those who delay until the last minute may be nabbed by the officials of adjoining counties if they stray too far without the new plates.

END OF TERM IS TOMORROW

RECORD ENROLLMENT FOR WINTER AT COLLEGE.

TESTS ARE ON TODAY

Authorities at S. T. C., Predict Record Number of Students For Spring Term.

The winter quarter at the State Teachers College ends tomorrow afternoon. Final examinations started at 8 o'clock this morning and will end at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

From the standpoint of enrollment, this was the largest winter quarter in the history of the College. Seven hundred and ninety students were enrolled. Of this number, eighty-seven were taking work exclusively in the conservatory of music.

Enrollment for the spring quarter starts Monday, when freshmen alone will matriculate. This is a new ruling at the College. Previously, all students have enrolled on the same day. Because of this, there have been many difficulties. Freshmen would find themselves all right for their first year but would encounter difficulties later because they were not properly advised in their first year because faculty members were busy with students of other classes at the same time.

All students other than freshmen will register on Tuesday. Class work will begin at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning.

A record enrollment is predicted by College authorities for the coming quarter. The number is expected to exceed that of last year when a total of 905 students was enrolled. Last year 221 students were registered in the short course. This course begins April 26 and ends on May 28 this year.

Easter recess will begin at the College on April 1 and will end on April 6 this year. Graduation week will start on May 23 and will end on May 26. The spring quarter will end on May 27.

REPORT "LEAK" CAUSED CRASH

CONGRESSMAN WOULD INVESTIGATE FINANCIAL RUMORS

BIG AIR FLEET ASKED

In Face of President Coolidge's Disapproval, War Department Presents Extensive Aviation Program

Washington, March 3—Representative Black, Democrat of New York, introduced a resolution in the House this afternoon providing for the appointment by the speaker of a committee of five members of the House to investigate reports that there was a leak in the interstate commerce commission's decision in the Nickel Plate railway merger case yesterday.

Reports were circulated in the Wall street today that part of the crash in the stock market was due to such a leak, although the commission denied it.

Washington, March 3.—On the heels of President Coolidge's announcement that he did not favor a big afr fleet because it might encourage another international armament race, the war department today submitted to Congress an extensive program for the development of aeronautics during the next five years.

In transmitting the program, Secretary of War Davis put it squarely up to Congress whether it wants to spend 150 million dollars during the next five years to provide what air officers consider adequate air defense.

Work On Infirmary Is Progressing Rapidly

Building, Originally Intended to Be 70 by 16 Feet, Will Be 80 By 70

Visiting the county farm this morning, the members of the County Court found work well under way on the temporary infirmary to replace the building burned ten days ago. The frame work is practically completed and the work of enclosing it will begin at once.

The temporary building, originally planned in the dimensions of 70 by 16 feet, has been enlarged to 80 by 70.

At the request of the insurance companies which issued policies on the old building, the cost of replacing the building was estimated by H. E. Wagenknecht, a St. Joseph architect. His estimate was $38,000 to $39,000.

J. W. Lamasney Is Now Head Highway Office

Lawrence Kirch Here On Way from St. Louis

No Reason Is Assigned for the Suicide of His Brother-in-law, Lindell Chew

Lawrence Kirch of Riverton, Wyo., arrived in Maryville this morning on his way home from St. Louis, where he was called by the death of his brother-in-law, Lindell Chew. Mr. Chew died as a result of a bullet wound self-inflicted last Thursday. No reason was assigned for the deed, as no note nor letter was found.

Mr. Chew's bride of a few weeks was Miss Cleona Kirch, daughter of Mrs. John Kirch of Riverton. The family resided in Maryville for many years.

Mr. Kirch will leave for his home this evening.

Billion Dollars Worth Of Stocks Wiped Out

Yesterday's Collapse Hits U. S. Steel And Standard Oil Of New Jersey Among Hardest.

New York, March 3.—Upwards of a billion dollars in market value of industrial stocks were wiped off the books by yesterday's collapse of the market, according to a compilation made in Wall street today. The heaviest losses in the aggregate occured in the stocks of which there is an enormous outstanding supply, such as United States Steel Corporation, with more than five million dollars valuation, and the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, with about twenty million shares with a par value of $25 each.

RAIL STOCK TO SEVERE TEST

BREAK AFTER COMMERCE COMMISSION STAND.

FELT COUNTRY OVER

Railroad Directors Believe Interstate Board May Take Same Viewpoint On Others.

New York, March 3—Railroad stocks in the New York market were subjected to the severest test in a decade today as a result of the announcement of the interstate commerce commission disapproving the proposed Nickel Plate merger.

Erie and Pere Marquette stocks broke seven and twelve points respectively at the beginning of trading, below which price level there was little or no stock for sale.

Brokers state that several blocks of Nickel Plate stock have been offered in the market but that no reasonable bids have been submitted for them.

B. & O. common gained thirteen points and the buyers have always maintained that it was more valuable outside of the merger.

Washington, March 3.—Railroad directors of the United States were directing their attention today to the interstate commerce commission's surprising decision on the huge Nickel Plate merger plan as there is a half-score of mergers which are now in the making.

Virtually every section of the country is touched by the indication that the commission, in refusing to approve the Nickel Plate merger because of its financial structure, has laid down a rule which it will follow in mergers already before it for consideration and others which will be in the near future.

3 Killed When Trains Collide Early Today

Negligence on Part of Switchmen Believed to Be Cause Of Smash.

Chicago, March 3.—A fast freight on the Michigan Central early today crashed head-on into a suburban train on the Illinois Central, carrying late after-theater-supper crowds, killing three railroad men and injuring a dozen passengers, two of them of whom are believed dying.

Preliminary investigation indicated that a switch had been negligently left open and police took into custody Otto Nitshe and William Cunningham, in charge of a signal tower at the scene of the accident.

The locomotive and suburban train were knocked from the tracks by the compact and the first coach was demolished. The engineer and fireman of the freight, both of whom were injured and are under guard at a hospital here, said today that the freight had an all-clear signal at two points before the crash. In this they were sustained by the two tower men.

Police, however, point out that the switch, which shunted the passenger train into the path of the freight, was set in opposition to clear signals for the freight.

TRUSTEES TOR ESTATE NAMED

THREE K. C. MEN IN CHARGE OF NELSON LEGACY.

KIRKWOOD WILL FILED

Her Money Will Also Eventually Revert To Nelson Foundation of Art.

Kansas City, March 3.—William B. Volker, J. C. Nichols and Herbert V. Jones, all of Kansas City, today were named trustees of the estate of William B. Nelson, publisher, who died here in 1915.

Volker is a millionaire philanthropist and a member of the board of education; Nichols is a wealthy real estate dealer and developer of Kansas City's most beautiful residential section; Jones is also a real estate man and is chairman of the city plan commission.

Appointment of a board of trustees by the heads of the universities of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma to manage the Nelson estate of more than twenty million dollars was provided for in Nelson's will.

The estate includes the Kansas City Star and the will stipulated that this property should be sold within two years after the death of the last Nelson heir. Mrs. Irwin Kirkwood, Nelson's daughter and sole remaining heir, died in Baltimore Saturday.

Funds derived from the sale of the Star, which will be in the hands of the newly appointed trustees, will be added to the income from the large real estate holdings of the Nelson estate here and the returns from the total investments shall be used in erecting and maintaining an art gallery in Kansas City.

The trustees are to hold their positions at the discretion of the university heads and whenever a vacancy occurs the school heads are to appoint a successor, the will provides.

The selections announced today were made by Dr. Stratton D. Brooks of the University of Missouri, Chancellor E. H. Lindley of the University of Kansas and Dr. William M. Bizzell of the University of Oklahoma.

Kansas City, March 3.—The two-million-dollar personal estate of Mrs. Laura Nelson Kirkwood, last of the William Rockhill Nelson family, who was buried yesterday, will eventually revert to the Nelson Foundation of Art, her will discloses today.

Mrs. Kirkwood's husband, Irwin Kirkwood, may use the estate in any manner he sees fit during his lifetime, the will provides, but the principal must be preserved for the specific purpose of erecting the art building, the purchase of a site for such a building, or both.

The will was filed for probate today. Mr. Kirkwood was named executor without bond and upon his death the estate will be administered by John E. Wilson, attorney for the Nelson estate. Upon Mr. Wilson will be entrusted the handling of the estate and the construction of the art building.

The huge city home of the Kirkwood family, the old residence of the Nelson family, worth in itself many hundreds of thousands of dollars, will likely be razed at the death of Mr. Kirkwood.

The friends of Mrs. Kirkwood say she did not want to raze the property, but there being so many windows in the rooms as to render it unsuitable for an art gallery, the latter plan has been agreed upon.

The will further provides that all of Mrs. Kirkwood's personal effects, such as gems, furniture, etc., must be sold to persons unknown to Mrs. Kirkwood and who live at least 250 miles away from Kansas City.

A trust fund of $105,000 was established for the improvement of the Nelson Chapel at Mt. Washington cemetery. Another trust fund of $60,000 was to be left to a boys memorial choir, organized by Mrs. Kirkwood in memory of Colonel Nelson's widow. The choir sings at the Grace and Holy Trinity Episcopal Church of which the Nelsons were members.

Chicken Hatchery Near Graham Is Perhaps Largest In This Section

From a modest beginning ten years ago, with a 250-egg incubator, the Groves hatchery, two miles northwest of Graham, has grown until now it is recognized as perhaps the largest in Northwest Missouri.

Within the last thirty days, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Groves, the owners of the hatchery, have installed an incubator with a capacity of 12,960 eggs. In addition to this large one, they have several small ones, which will be used in case of emergency.

About ten or twelve years ago, Mrs. Groves started the hatchery. She purchased a 250-egg incubator and began to sell one-day-old chicks. All of the eggs were turned by hand and it was a hard task.

A short time later Mr. and Mrs. Groves bought three 500-egg incubators and three years ago they put in fourteen 1,100-egg incubators. The large one which they have now was installed about thirty days ago.

It contains 108 trays, each having a capacity of 120 eggs. There are twelve tray racks, each containing nine trays. The incubator itself is eight feet wide, ten feet long and six feet high. It is heated by hot water and the heat is regulated by an automatic thermostat. Three 16-inch electric fans provide the ventilation and distribute the heat evenly among the eggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Groves set one-third of the eggs each week and in this way will have more than four thousand chickens coming off each week. The first hatch is expected next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The eggs are turned three times a day and it requires only about ten minutes to turn all of the 12,960. The chickens are shipped just as soon as they are hatched. About one-half are sold in St. Joseph and the others are shipped to various parts of the country. Mr. and Mrs. Groves expect to hatch about 35,000 chicks this year.

Mr. Groves is one of the most prosperous farmers in Hughes township and is a big livestock raiser in addition to his activities in the chicken business.

In politics, Mr. Groves wants it distinctly understood that he is a Democrat of the "never scratch" variety.

Asked yesterday afternoon who he would vote for in the coming election, he quickly replied, "Harry Hawes and Bob Ellison."

Congressmen Argue Over "Pork Barrel"

Even War Records Brought To Light In Discussion Over Appropriations For Buildings.

BY CHARLES P. STEWART.
NEA Service Writer.

Washington—Congressman Wingo of Arkansas, finding fault, a few days ago, with a $385,000 appropriation to improve the facade of one of the federal government buildings in Manhattan, said some sharp things to Congressman LaGuardia of New York, for having favored the appropriation under discussion.

Wingo questioned if LaGuardia even knows what a facade is. He implied that the "pork" (that is, the appropriation, for his district) was all the New Yorker was interested in.

LaGuardia replied that he did, too, know what a facade is.

To illustrate, he said that Wingo, (a very dressy, imposing-looking individual) has an extremely fine facade. Otherwise he admitted that he agreed with Wingo—a facade isn't nearly as important as what's behind it.

However, he wanted to state that, unlike Wingo's facade, that New York federal government building's facade really has got something important behind it.

Wingo thereupon made some rather disparaging remarks concerning LaGuardia's war record, observing that LaGuardia made it entirely on the Italian front, which Wingo didn't seem to think amounted to much.

LaGuardia answered that, such as it was, he did have a war record, anyway, whereas Wingo hadn't—not even one made on the Italian front.

Wingo then referred to LaGuardia as "that thing."

Upon this a lot of other congressmen made points of order (darn 'em, for spoil-sports) and that ended the row but it was an unusually good one while it lasted.

Stanley Co., Opens New Camden Theater

Company of Which F. W. Buhler, Formerly of Maryville, is General Manager, Puts Up $1,000,000 Theater

A recent issue of the Camden, N. J. Courier contained a several page section about the opening of a new theater building in that city by the Stanley Company of America of which Frank W. Buhler, is general manager. This company now owns 182 theaters, some of them being in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Wilmington, Atlantic City and other Eastern cities. The headquarters of the Stanley Company are in Philadelphia. The theater at Camden was erected at a cost of $1,000,000.

Mr. Buhler is a son of Mrs. Mary Buhler of Maryville.

The following is a clipping about Mr. Buhler:

An example of the Stanley Company being a part of Camden as much as Camden is a part of the Stanley Company was given when the late hotel drive was on and General Manager Buhler, of the Stanley Theaters, who is considered a mighty busy man and of whom it is said the days are not long enough to get all the work done which he would like, "took off his coat" so to speak, and went and sold stock. He sold stock to all—citizens, Stanley officers, himself and everyone else he knew.

These are the kind of men who will help make Camden's "place in the sun." A Stanley-conducted theater is a pride to any community and Camden has five of them.

A picture of Mr. Buhler sitting at his desk accompanied the article.

J. E. and Byron Williams of Quitman went to Braddyville, Ia., to attend the funeral this afternoon of John Nichols, who died Monday afternoon. Mrs. Opie Ross of Quitman is a granddaughter.

MUST COLLECT UNPAID TAXES

FOUR COLLECTORS' BOOKS REFUSED BY COURT.

WILL SELL PROPERTY

Will Be Disposed Of at Public Auction —Other Township Collectors Expected To Report Tomorrow.

Five more township collectors turned in their books today to the County Court. Four were refused because of uncollected personal taxes.

The four collectors who were sent back to their townships to make another attempt to get the taxes were instructed by the court to levy upon the personal property listed and to sell it, as provided by law.

The books of Monroe Township were accepted and settlement was made with Charles H. Geyer, the collector. He had made total collections of $32,981.65 and $1,762.71 remains delinquent of which little is personal.

The collectors who were refused final settlement were W. I. Burns, Independence Township; Miss Elizabeth Flynn, Jackson; Mrs. Gertrude Walsh, Jefferson; and Mrs. Nellie Price Leeper, Lincoln.

The books of Hughes, Polk and Hopkins townships were rejected yesterday.

The collectors were ordered to seize enough property of the delinquent taxpayers to cover their personal property. They are to sell it at public auction after advertising the sale for fifteen days by posting of notices in three public places in the township in which the sale is to be held. The amount of the personal taxes, the costs of the sale, constable's fees and other items are to be deducted from the proceeds, after which the surplus, if any, is to be returned to the property owner.

Mrs. Cora Bell Clary, collector of Atchison township, was prepared to submit her books later this afternoon. Tomorrow the collectors of Nodaway, Union, Washington and White Cloud townships will appear, and the Polk Township collector will return. The others who have been sent back are to return Friday or Saturday.

Figures in Indiana's "Worldly" Trial

Because Clyde Martin, former high school principal at Palmyra, Ind., built a community house, organized a basketball team and provided recreation facilities for the young people of the town, elders of the Palmyra Church of Christ have accused him of being "worldly and un-Christian" and are seeking to oust him from the church. These pictures were taken at his first trial, when it was voted to refer the case to the entire congregation. At the left, above, is Charles Ellis, elder who brought the charges against Martin; below is William Boston, who presided at the trial. At the right B. B. Boston, his brother, and editor of the town's only paper, is shown carrying a huge Bible to the church to use in this testimony against Martin.

A Bit of Logic

Our funeral home is very obviously a more or less costly affair. It represents a considerable investment on our part.

Now, if we had not felt that it was an absolutely essential part of our equipment, we would have saved this money. As it is, we think that those who call upon us will find it decidedly to their advantage to avail themselves of the facilities offered by our splendid home.

AUTOS ALONE BUILD ROADS

NO PROPERTY TAX WILL BE NEEDED COMMISSION SAYS.

COMPLETION BY 1934

Division Meeting At St. Joseph Is Attended By Members of Local State Highway Force.

Missouri's road system of 7,640 miles can be completed by 1934 with the present motor registration fees and gasoline tax, without any property tax, according to information brought back by members of the local state highway force from a division meeting of highway maintenance forces at St. Joseph.

The meeting was addressed by B. H. Piepmeier, chief engineer, and other leaders in the state's highway program. They submitted a chart showing the income received to date and that which is anticipated from motor registration fees and gasoline taxes from 1918 to 1935, inclusive, and another showing the funds available each year for construction work after the money has been deducted for the sinking fund, interest on the bonds, maintenance of state roads and administration expenses.

By 1935, the highway officials estimate that receipts from motor registration fees and gasoline tax will have grown to $20,000,000 a year.

Half Under Contract.

A third chart shows that to date the department has placed under contract 50 per cent of the work on the primary roads and 46 per cent on the secondary roads, and that the entire primary system will be completed with an eighteen-foot concrete pavement, or its equivalent type, by 1932, while the secondary roads will be completed by 1934. Refunds to counties and political subdivisions for money which was advanced to the state also will be made by 1934. This chart also showed the total amount of work placed under contract to date and the comparative amount of money received from various sources.

The highway commission submitted the following facts as to the work already done and the program for 1926:

The total state road system comprises 7,640 miles, 1,500 miles of which are recognized as primary or high type roads. Approximately 3,000 miles of the state road system have been selected as U. S. or transcontinental highways. There will, however, be practically no difference between the primary and secondary roads when the system is completed.

The entire cost of the state road system when completed will be approximately $187,000,000; $60,000,000 of this amount will be financed from the road bonds. The entire cost, including the bonds, will be financed from automobile registration fees and the gasoline tax by 1932 to 1934. There is no property tax for state road construction or maintenance, or for the overhead expense of the department, and there need be no such tax.

The department has placed under contract approximately $89,000,000 of state road work; more than $100,000,000 will be under contract by the end of 1926, which is over one-half of the entire cost of the system.

The department has finished to date 2,500 miles of hard surfaced state roads, 832 miles of which were completed in 1925. The department is planning to complete 1,000 miles in 1926, and to date has done work upon more than one-half of the state road system.

The state has sold $40,000,000 of road bonds, of which $37,000,000 has been paid out for work done.

$18,000,000 From U. S. Funds.

The state has received approximately $18,000,000 from the federal government in the form of federal aid, or approximately $2,400,000 a year. The state has never lost a cent of federal money.

The state will sell $15,000,000 of road bonds in 1926 and $5,000,000 in 1927; after 1927 all state road work will be financed on the pay-as-you-go plan.

The overhead expense of the department for 1925 was 3.2 per cent. None of the $60,000,000 has or can be used for overhead expense, or for maintenance of the state roads.

The department has numbered, marked, and is maintaining the entire state road system of 7,640 miles, and is spending approximately $2,000,000 a year, or an average of $260.00 a mile, for the maintenance of the state roads. More maintenance money will be needed later, when all of the roads are improved and traffic has increased.

"It is generally agreed that the gasoline tax of two cents a gallon will eventually be needed for the betterment and maintenance of the present state roads," the officials stated.

"A diversion of any part of the gasoline tax or automobile registration fees would prevent the completion of the state road system in 1932 to 1934," they warned, adding:

"Every automobile owner should be interested in completing every mile of the present state road system by 1932 to 1934, therefore, no mileage should be added to the present state road system until after it is completed. There should be no diversion of funds, nor should anything be done to disrupt the present efficient organization of the department.

"The department is seeking the best location for the state roads, grading and draining the routes to insure safety and future development, and building permanent bridges, subways and overhead structures at railroad crossings to prevent accidents. In general, the department is building a state road system to meet the demands of traffic and as nearly perfect as can be secured, within the limits of the present scientific knowledge and available finances."

All the members of the local highway force attended the St. Joseph meeting.

NEED STATE-WIDE POLICE

SO SAYS ORGANIZATION MEETING IN SEDALIA

'SHERIFF INADEQUATE'

Association for Criminal Justice Says Officers Use Medieval Tactics Against Modern Criminals

Sedalia, March 3—A state-wide police organization, similar to those in New York and Pennsylvania, should be established by the Missouri Legislature to enforce criminal laws in all parts of the state, except in cities which maintain regular police departments. The Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, after concluding that the county officers need the help of such a police agency in Missouri, madethis statement today at a meeting held here.

The report was the fourth of a series dealing with criminal justice. It was prepared by Prof. Raymond Moley of Columbia University, New York City.

The state police force was recommended after members of the association had found in a survey that the sheriffs retain medieval powers and functions while they combat criminals who use modern methods in all respects.

"The only possible remedy for the problem, created by the inadequacy of the sheriff's office, is the creation of a state police force," the report stated.

"A state-wide agency, organized to meet modern crime conditions, by the means of modern police protection, is necessary. Such an agency should not supplant sheriffs or constables but should fill the need created by the fact these old officers have become primarily civil instead of criminal agencies."

ROSENDALE TO BE MET HERE

DOUBLE-HEADER WILL BE PLAYED TOMORROW NIGHT.

VISITING FIVE STRONG

Has Won All of Twenty Games Played This Season By One-Sided Scores.

Tomorrow night on the Maryville High School court, the local basketball teams will meet the boys and girls from Rosendale. These games should be the heaviest drawing cards of the season for the local sport fans.

The Rosendale boys have played twenty games this year outside of tournaments. All of these have been won, and a large majority by one-sided scores. Only once this year has Rosendale been defeated, and that in the outdoor season when it lost to Pickering in the tournament held at the College here, 6 to 8.

Coach Croy has a fast, quick-breaking team. His is a smooth machine. All of the players are good shots, and all are expert on the defense.

The Maryville brand of basketball will not be new to the visitors tomorrow night. Every time the Spoofhounds have played this year, there has been a Rosendale scout in the bleachers, according to Coach W. H. Herbert.

The girls game will be the preliminary tomorrow night. It wil start at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Helen Manley, head of the women's physical education department at the College will referee.

"Viv" Marsh of St. Joseph will officiate at the boys game.

Special seating plans are being made today to afford more room for townspeople at the games. At all other games a club plan has been adopted for students, whereby most of the seats were taken up by school children. This will not be the case tomorrow night.

Bearcats Meet Strong Schooley Quintet Here

Local Team Will Make Final Appearance of Season in College Gymnasium Saturday Night.

The 1926 State Teachers College Bearcats will make their final appearance of this year on Saturday night when they meet the strong Schooley team of Kansas City on the local court.

The stationers are rated as one of the few really strong teams in this part of the country. Tonight they play the Kansas City Athletic Club for honors in Kansas City. This game should be a fast one, as both teams were defeated by the St. Joseph Hillyards by close scores. Comparative ratings point to a 1-point victory for the Blue Diamonds.

Following the game Saturday night, the Bearcats will disband for this year, unless they be taken to the national tournament in Kansas City. Coach Lawrence will use practically the same starting line-up which opened against Warrensburg last night.

Reserved seats for the Schooley game are available at Kuchs Bros. Activity coupons will not admit College students to the game.

Here They Are---The Champions of the M. I. A. A.

The State Teachers College Bearcats last night completed a conference basketball season which left them champions of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association. They met each of the other four conference schools twice, one here and once away from home. In the first game of the season, at Kirksville, they were defeated, 32 to 14. All of the other games were won. Thus, they finished the season with a percentage of .875. The results of the seven conference games which were won follow: Maryville, 35; Cape Girardeau, 21—Maryville, 34; Kirksville, 21—Maryville, 26; Cape Girardeau, 23—Maryville, 30; Springfield, 22—Maryville, 47; Warrensburg, 21—Maryville, 28; Springfield, 22—and Maryville, 27; Warrensburg, 22. In their conference games, the Bearcats scored 241 points to 184 for their opponents.

Too much credit for the basketball championship won by the State Teachers College team cannot be given to Frank Lawrence and Paul Jones, coaches. These men have worked diligently with their team and a large part of the praise is due them.

It must be remembered that this is the second championship which Lawrence and Jones have brought to Maryville this year, the other being in football.

Basketball fans may have an opportunity to see the team which may be a dark horse in the national tournament when the Schooleys of Kansas City play here Saturday night. This team will bear watching all the way.

The Maryville High School boys will have no set-up in their game with Rosendale tomorrow night. This team has a long successful record behind it, and can be banked upon to spring the surprise if there is one in store for the Spoofhounds.

It is to be hoped that Coach Herbert's team will not get a dose of the ego. It has won so consistently and so overwhelmingly that it will be remakable if the winning doesn't increase the size of five heads.

M. E. Seleeman, director of information at the State Teachers College, reports that eighteen teams have been entered in the basketball tournament to be held at the College next week. Indications are that this will be one of the best tournaments in the history of the school.

John Bunn, so well known here, and Tad Reid, the Warrensburg coach, will referee the games of the tournament.

Seven high school basketball teams were guests of the State Teachers College at the Maryville-Warrensburg games last night. They were: Rock Port, Elmo, Ravenwood, Barnard, Parnell, Maitland and Bolckow.

BEARCATS WIN A 27-22 GAME

DEFEAT WARRENSBURG ON LOCAL COLLEGE COURT.

WAS A CLOSE CONTEST

Ray Blomfield Completes Collegiate Competition, Playing Every Game in Four Years.

The State Teachers College Bearcats last night won the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship by defeating the Warrensburg Mules on the local court, 27 to 22.

The game was close all the way, and at times there was a great deal of doubt about the outcome. Maryville fans had expected the Bearcats to win, the men were laboring under the handicap of knowing that everyone looked for an easy victory. For that reason, it wasn't an easy one.

The Bearcats were the superior team—yes—but they have played better basketball, and it is a pleasure to remember their work in the Springfield game rather than their basketball last night.

Maryville took the lead at the start of the game, but Warrensburg picked up and led, 12-10 at the half. The Bearcats went ahead about the middle of the second half when Blomfield catapaulted down the court for a short basket.

With five minutes to play, but one point separated the two teams. Then Maryville forged ahead, to win by 5 points.

A record was kept of the number of shots made by each team, regardless of their outcome. The Bearcats tossed at the basket sixty-seven times, while Warrensburg shot two times less. Forty Maryville shots were from short range, eight were from afar, and nineteen were medium flips. The Bearcats scored on nine short shots, one long one and three of the medium variety.

Warrensburg made eight out of forty short shots, none out of five long shots, and one out of twenty medium shots.

Maryville shot one time more than her opponent in each half.

The Maryville team made one shot out of seven attempts at free throws, while Warrensburg made four out of ten shots.

Maryville was fouled seven times, four of which were on Blomfield, who was taken from the game by personals in the last few minutes. Warrensburg made six fouls.

Berst led the Maryville scoring with 9 points, and Garrison was high for Warrensburg with 12 points.

Ray Blomfield succeeded in getting the jump off of Soph, Warrensburg center, in almost every play. This was the last collegiate game for the big Maryville player. He has started every one of the basketball games played by his team in the last four years.

John Bunn refereed a nice game.

Once upon a time a beautiful queen called her five most valiant knights before her and said to them, "You have all served me well. Each year you have gone forth and brought glory to my empire. You have vanquished foreign foes. You have laid much booty at my feet. You have ever made me proud of you by your honor, your integrity, your valor.

"I would reward you all, but, according to my custom, I bestow upon but one of you the highest honor. It would be unfair for me to single out one of you as superior—so you must decide among yourselves, by knightly contest, which is most worthy of the title I have to bestow.

"Therefore I bid you go joust among yourselves. Let the victor present himself to me at the termination of the melee, and him will I honor more then all the rest."

The five brave knights bowed before their queen. They loved her dearly, and underneath the breastplate of each a resolute heart beat with the determination to return to its sovereign, a victor.

And so, the knights went out to joust. They decided among themselves that each should meet the other twice.

As they lined up for the melee, each bore the proud colors of his lady love or of his patron saint.

There was the Knight of Warren, who the year before had been so supreme. His was a black and red plume, and right boastfully did it wave in the breezes.

And the Knight of Kirk, with his purple and white covered shield, rode his charger up and down the tourney place, impatient that the contest be on.

Sir Cape was there, a brilliant red and black pennant dangling from his long lance; a resolute look in his eye.

And there was the Knight of the Spring, larger, perhaps, that all his fellows. His helmet boasted of no plume, but a flaming maroon blanket covered the sleek sides of his magnificent white mount.

And last was the Unknown Knight. He seemed younger than all the rest. He was a slender lad. His breastplate fit him snugly, and the green and white plume on his helmet reflected a thousand times on his shiny shield, bare but for the motto it bore, "The Truth Shall Make You Free."

Little sentiment was shown by the first four knights, but the unknown one held back the start of the melee long enough to gallop to the reviewing stand, halt in a cloud of dust, and romantically salute the Maid Mary who was seated there.

Then the flurry began. The first meeting was between the Knight of Kirk and the Unknown Knight. The former was off with a flash when the trumpets sounded, "Allez," and he caught his less experienced opponent off his guard. The Unknown Knight fought to hold his balance but was unseated by the mighty thrust of the Kirk Knight's lance.

Next Sir Cape and the Knight of Warren met, and when the dust had cleared away the Cape Knight was standing over his fallen opponent.

And so on, they met—and after several hours of jousting it was seen that the Unknown Knight was winning from all of his fellows. Twice he sent Sir Cape reeling from his saddle. Then he evened the count with the Kirk Knight. The Knight of Warren was no match for him.

At last he lined up with the Knight of the Spring. The trumpet sounded. They were off in two clouds of dust. They met in the center of the ground with a sound exceeding thunder. Neither was unseated.

They met again. Saddle girths strained and armor clanged—and from the cloud of smoke-dust the Unknown Knight rode forth, followed by Sir Spring—on foot.

But these two were to meet again. Soon they were ready. Three times they charged into one another, to no avail. Each selected a new lance. They charged again.

Even as a giant oak breaks in the strong hands of the God of Storm, so did their lances splinter. Both went rolling to the ground.

The Unknown Knight was up in a flash, his broadsword unsheated. It was useless. Sir Spring could not rise.

Thundrous was the applaus from the gallery, and crimson was the blush of pride on the face of the Maid Mary.

The Unknown Knight had one more meeting—his second and final one with the Knight of Warren. He was expected to win. He did.

He did not stop, however. Straight to the reviewing stand he rode. The Maid Mary was on her feet. Leaning far out of the saddle, the Unknown Knight clasped his arm around her and lightly she vaulted into the saddle behind him.

To his queen he rode, the flush of victory upon his head, now bare of its helmet. Deep was his courtesy before the sovereign.

The queen rose. A sweet smile was on her face.

"I have watched the parrying," she said. "You have rightly won—and valiantly too. Therefore I bestow upon you the title of "Champion." May you ever honor it."

The queen sat down. There was a smile upon her face. She had known love.

"Sir Champion Knight," she said, "you are unknown. You have come from somewhere—yet nowhere. You have brought your lady fair with you. I am going to need you again in my realm. Therefore I give you yon castel and grounds."—And she pointed out the window. "It is yours. Name it for your love, and may the Champion always live in the castle of Maryville."

The YELLOW STUB

by Ernest Lynn

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket.

JANET RAND, his daughter, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN, because of the "disgrace." JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Springfield where the theater is. The stub is traced to THOMAS FOGARTY, a political boss, who says he gave it to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga. She faints when she learns police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lifting Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Springfield and later is attacked at night by two men, but escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Mary tells Jimmy this when they meet and he, trying to hurt her, accuses her of marrying for money.

That evening Jimmy and Olga see, in an auto, a man they both recognize—she as the man who got the stub, he as one of his attackers. The man and his companion escape. Later they identify him by his police picture as IKE JENSEN.

Church, out driving with Mary runs over a dog. His heartlessness kindles hatred in her heart and she breaks her engagement.

LIEUTENANT O'DAY, a policeman, warns Jimmy that Olga is in love with him. He invites Jimmy to his home for supper. The next day Jimmy, who, short of funds, had taken a job driving a laundry truck, is fired. He accuses his employer of lying as to the reasons for his discharge.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The two men stood eyeing each other wordlessly, anger written on both faces. Finally Porter dropped his eyes from Rand's. He shrugged, and turned away toward the door.

There was a hysterical titter from Miss Caton, who instantly covered her confusion by busying herself with some bills.

Jimmy said, as Porter's hand clutched the door knob: "You disappoint me, Porter."

The other's face crimsoned under the taunt. This young man had flung down the gauntlet to him and he had let it lie . . . . He avoided Jimmy's eyes as he walked out of the door. . . . .

* * *

She looked up, after replacing her change in her bag, and stopped to stare. Coming toward her in the crowd of home-bound office workers, was a figure about whom there was something vaguely familiar.

It was a girl, a slender girl with very light hair and dark eyebrows and lashes—a rare type and one not easy to forget. Instantly Mary remembered. It was the girl whom she had seen in Jimmy Rand's arms that night in front of the Mayfair Hotel.

She was a very pretty girl, Mary thought—a beautiful girl. Yet the sight of her struck a hostile chord somewhere inside her. This was the woman that had come between her and Jimmy; she was the cause—however innocent—of the misunderstanding that had led to their estrangement.

What was there between this girl and Jimmy? What secret did they share? Jimmy had said: "You don't know how important it was that I find that girl." Why was it important? He had never told her. And yet, it occurred to her then, he had offered to, only something Mary herself had said had stopped him.

A burning jealousy laid hold of her. She hated this blond creature with her delicate, arched eyebrows and her violet-gray eyes.

"I'll ask her," she said, half aloud, and stepped partly into Olga Maynard's path.

Olga saw her, too, and a light of recognition was in her eyes. She eyed Mary coolly, then turned her head away.

Mary could have touched her with her hand. She took an involuntary step toward the other girl and opened her mouth irresolutely to speak. But she hesitated too long, and Olga was gone. The proper moment had passed.

Mary stood where she was, turning to follow Olga with her eyes. Perhaps twenty yards away the other girl turned for a backward look and her glances met Mary's again. Then she turned and was lost in the crowd.

Sam Church had described this girl as a cheap hanger-on in the cabarets, a wanton. . . . . Well, it wasn't true, Mary forced herself to admit, although she found herself wanting to believe it. But there had been a certain refinement about those features. . . . After all, Sam Church was a liar.

And Olga, hurrying homeward. . . . The sight of Mary Lowell was only another bitter reminder that Jimmy Rand had promised to come to see her and hadn't.

When she reached her apartment she tore off her hat and studied her reflection in the glass of her dressing table. The light from the wall shown through her hair and wreathed her head like a halo. But there were tears in her eyes.

Is he seeing her?" she asked herself in the mirror. She turned toward the phone on the table and then swung away from it, resolutely. She flung herself on the bed and lay face down on the pillow.

"I'll call him. I've got to," she said, springing suddenly to her feet, she ran to the phone and called Jimmy Rand's number.

The landlady, answering, said he was out . . . . a dinner engagement, he had said.

* * *

Lieutenant O'Day answered the door when Jimmy rang.

"Come in, come in. You'll have to excuse the uniform." He was still arrayed in the police blue, with its gold trimmings. "Fact is, I've been busy this afternoon. A conference with the chief, and some courtroom work."

He took Jimmy's coat and hat. "Mother, this is Mr. Rand, the lad I've been tellin' you about."

Mrs. O'Day, fat and motherly, kissed him on the cheek by way of making him feel at home.

"I've heard about your trouble," she said. "You poor boy. Sit right down. Dinner, such as it is, will be ready in two shakes."

"I want you to meet the boys, Mr. Rand." O'Day indicated his two sons, who had come silently into the living room.

"This is Francis. Francis is fourteen. An' this is Timothy. Tim's eleven."

Francis, shy and silent, admitted to Jimmy during dinner that he was in high school, and Timothy volunteered the information that he was in the sixth grade.

"Tim," supplemented their father, "wants to be a lawyer. I don't know about Francis. He hasn't the gift of gab like his brother. Maybe a doctor, or an engineer."

"What are you going to be, Mr. Rand?" asked Timothy.

"Be still, Tim," admonished Mrs. O'Day. "He'll be worryin' the life out of you with his questions, Mr. Rand," she explained to Jimmy.

"Well, I don't know, Tim," Jimmy smiled, answering his youthful questioner. "You see, the war came along and interrupted my college career—I was just taking a general course in arts and sciences—and since leaving the army I've been selling automobiles."

"Gee! Were you in the army?"

Rand laughed at Tim's eagerness. "Sure."

"Didja go over to France?"

"Yep."

Francis, the silent one, asked: "What branch were you in—the infantry?"

"No, Francis, I was in the air service."

Rapt admiration held the boys speechless and spellbound for a moment. Tim broke the silence, and there was downright awe in his next question.

"Didja shoot any Germans?"

"Go on, answer the boy's question," urged O'Day. To his wife he said, with a nood toward Jimmy: "A brave lad, and he won't talk about himself unless Tim makes him."

"There's something I want to ask you, Lad," said O'Day. "Was your grandfather's name Thaddeus Rand?"

"Well," began Jimmy, reddening and turning to O'Day's son. "I did happen to be with a squadron that saw some action, and was lucky enough to bring down a couple of planes. But they got even. They brought me down, too, and I was in a German prison camp for four months."

"Gee!" from Timothy. "I'm studying the hostory of the World War in school." And he continued with his barrage of questions.

Under them Jimmy had to go into all the details of his adventures with that picturesque band that made up the air service during the late war. Tim's eyes popped as he heard about the machine gun bullet that had punctured the gasoline tank on Jimmy's plane. He wanted even to see the scar left by the one that had plowed through Jimmy's shoulder.

Jimmy had to explain for the more technical-minded Francis how the fixed gun that operated from the pilot's seat was synchronized with the motor, so the bullets could pass between the revolving propellor blades, instead of going through them and splintering.

"It was timed with the motor's cam shaft," he explained to the attentive Francis. "In the two-seater planes, the observer in the rear operated a movable gun that he could swing all the way around."

"I've always thought," remarket Lieutenant O'Day, "that it took a lot of nerve to fly one of them planes. Now I know it. I know what a soldier's life is like. I saw a bit of action in Cuba. But excuse me from flyin'. I'll keep my feet on good old Mother Earth."

"Not at all," laughed Jimmy. "You've got the wrong slant entirely. You take the infantry for example. Now, during the war, when those fellows were ordered to go over the top, they had to do it. In the air service it was a cinch. If we went up and saw an enemy airplane and didn't feel like fighting we could could come down and blame it on engine trouble. There was no engine trouble in the infantry."

O'Day laughed boisterously. "You boys," he said, turning to Francis and Tim, "had better pack off to your room. There's a lot of studyin' to do." . . . .

* * *

"I got the sack today," said Jimmy. He and O'Day were still at the table, smoking, while Mrs. O'Day cleared off the dishes. He told O'Day how he had been fired for the second time for no apparent reason.

"I don't know whether it's hard luck or whether somebody's hounding me. I got the same reason in both places. Do you suppose there's some kind of a conspiracy against me?"

O'Day shook his head. "Darned if I can make it out lad." He leaned back, puffing at his cigar, and eyed Rand with a peculiar look.

"There's something on my mind, Rand. Your father's name was Henry Rand, wasn't it?"

"Yes."

O'Day studied his cigar. "Did he come from a place named Durbin, in New York state?"

"Why yes, he did." Jimmy leaned forward eagerly. "There's where he was raised as a boy."

"Was his father named Thaddeus Rand?"

"Thaddeus Rand was my grandfather. I never saw him, though. Say, what do you know about my father?"

At once, I began to pick up an appetite, my cheeks filled out and my complexion became healthy looking and I gained 15 pounds in six weeks and am very thankful for what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for me.

Miss Alberta Rogers, 264 W. Cerro Gorda St., Decatur, Ill.

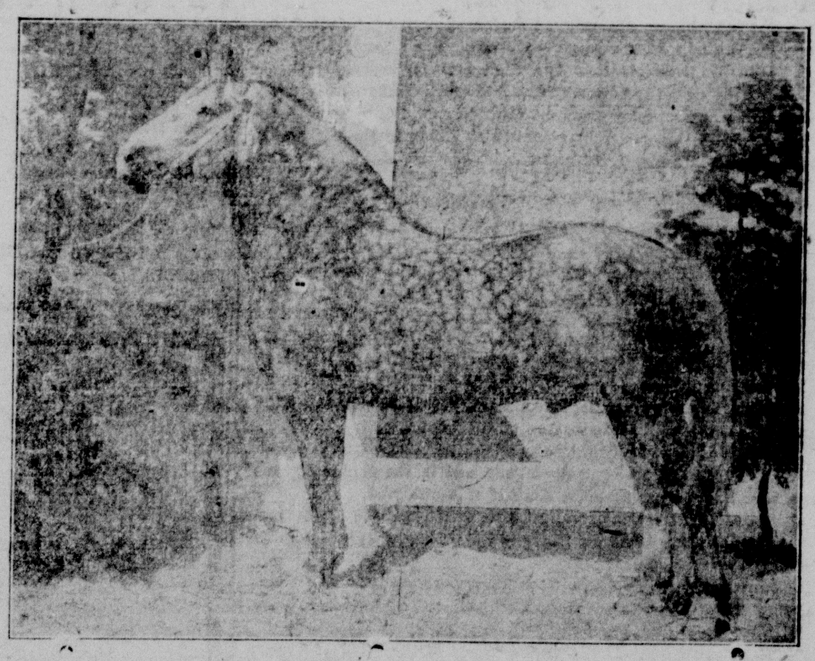
PURE-BRED HORSES AND GENERAL FARM SALE



PHENIX 42215

Will sell at public auction at the farm 4 miles South of Maryville, Mo., on

FRIDAY, MARCH 5th, 1926

Beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., the following described property, to-wit:

About 25 head of pure-bred horses, viz.: 20 Percherons, 5 Standard and Saddle-bred; and a few Shetland Ponies. This stock is all extra well bred and runs from weanlings to mature stock.

Among the lot is an outstanding Percheron Stallion (2, coming 3), fit to head any pure-bred herd. He has the "size and quality" both, with excellent and extra heavy bone, cleanest of big joints; and what is more, no draft colt (or horse if you please) has more natural style and action. He is simply a wonderful colt, the making of a great horse, the kind that have always been scarce. Selling him at a general farm sale, with only local advertising, the buyer is going to get a bargain at whatever he sells for. You might canvass many states and not find his equal. I can not describe each one here, space forbids, but attention is called to a good black 6-year Stallion, out of imported sire and dam, that is ready to make the big seasons that are sure now approaching.

The Old Champion Sire, PHENIX, will be offered, and because of his career, I will reserve the right to reject the bid on him, because of sentiment. He is still a great stock horse despite his years, but of course the bloom of younger days has gone.

The other young stallion colts in the lot will develop into good horses. There are some splendid work and brood mares and fillies, by Phenix (or in foal to him). The blood of Imported Kroiseur, son of the great Carnot, is also well infused in this bunch of Percherons. Two bay saddle fillies, 2 and 3 years old will please you. My saddle mare, that I have ridden myself for some time, will please you.

In short this is a lot of good useful stock and no better breeding anywhere. With the "new era" of the horse business already dawning, they are bound to do the buyer good. You can buy them at your own price, except as to PHENIX, as stated above. Will also sell line of farm implements, cows, calves and corn.

Lunch will be served by Members of the B. B. Club.

R. P. HOSMER, Auctioneer.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, March 3.—Grain prices closed higher on the Chicago Board of Trade here today.

Wheat was leading on the upswing with prices ⅞ to 1¾ cents over yesterday's levels.

Corn depended on wheat for most of its strength and closed fractionally higher.

After falling to new low levels at one time in the session, oats rallied and closed almost fully even with yesterday's figures.

Provisions closed slightly lower on a dull market.

A varied program, consisting of music, readings and an address, was given at a community meeting at the Bedison school last night.

Other numbers on the program were:

Reading, "Children's Rights"—

Family Supporter Has Exemption of $3,500

If you are single and support in your home one or more persons closely related to you and over whom you exercise family control, you are the head of a family and entitled under the revenue act of 1926 to the same personal exemptions allowed a married person, $3,500. In addition, a taxpayer is entitled to credit of $400 for each person dependent upon him for chief suport, if such person is either under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support, because mentally or physically defective. Such dependent need not be a member of the taxpayer's household. For example, an unmarried son who supports in his home an aged mother is entitled to an exemption of $3,500 plus the $400 credit for a dependent, a total of $3,900. If from choice the mother lived in another city, the son, although her chief support, would be entitled only to the $1,500 exemption, plus the $400 credit. The mother not living with him, he is not considered the head of a family.

An exemption as the head of a family can be claimed by only one member of a household.

The $400 credit does not apply to the wife or husband of a taxpayer, though one may be totally dependent upon the other.
